Did you know?

The next scheduled election is the Primary Election on August 28, 2018. So, one might think we have a lot of free time on our hands, right? Actually, your Supervisor of Elections office is quite busy between elections!

We have conducted list maintenance activities, financial disclosure process, address and street table audits, updates to web services, local elections for cities, schools. We continue to give presentations to social clubs, events, etc. We will continue poll worker training on new voting equipment, registering voters and updating records. The Statements of Financial Interests required by the Florida Commission on Ethics for certain elected officials and members serving on county and municipal boards deadline has passed, and we are very happy to report that all forms got in before certification to the Commission on Ethics and the application of fines. We have pre-filed three candidates for the 2018 Primary Election.

We have received training and tested the Online Voter Registration System scheduled to launch in October 2017. The Supervisor and two staff members will be attending a meeting in Gulf County in late September with the Department of State Division of Elections Director, Maria Matthews. We are conducting voter education and registration programs, converting to an address geo points system for voter registration, working with the legislature and Division of Elections to improve upon Florida's election laws and administrative rules. We are studying growth patterns throughout the county and researching options to accommodate an increase in registered Walton County voters.

We work hard all year long to ensure continued accurate and smooth elections for Walton County registered voters. If we can answer any questions or concerns regarding past or upcoming elections, we welcome you to stop by and visit us!
